I am Dying.

Raise my pillow, husband dearest-Faint and fa nter comes my breath : And these shadows, stealing slowly, Must, I know, be those of death. Sit down close beside me, darling, Let me clasp your warm, strong hand; Yours, that ever has sustained me To the borders of this land.

For your God and mine-our Father, Thence shall ever lead me on, Where, upon a throne eternal, Sits his loved and only Son. I've had visions, and been dreaming O'er the past of joy and pain; ear I ve wandered backward Till I was a child again.

Dreamed of girlhood, and the moment When I stood your wife and bride-How my heart thrilled with love's triumph In that hour of woman's pride. Dreamed of thee-and all the earth-cords Firmly twined about my heart-Oh! the bitter, burning anguish When first I knew that we must part.

It has passed-and God has promised All my foot-steps to attend; He, that's more than friend or brother, He'll be with thee to the end. There's no shadow o'er the portals Leading to my heavenly home-Christ hath premised life immortal, And 'tis he that bids me come.

When life's trials wait around thee, And its chilling billows swell. Thou'll thank heaven I am spared them, Thou'lt then feel that "all is well."

Bring our boys unto my bedside : My last blessing let them keep-But they're sleeping-do not wake them-They'll learn soon enough to weep.

Tell them often of their mother, Kiss them for me when they wake, Lead them gently in life's pathway, Love them doubly for my sake.

Clasp my hand still closer, darling, This, the last night of my life, For to-morrow, I shall never Answer, when you call me "wife."

Fare thee well, my noble husband. Faint not 'neath this chastening rod; Throw your strong arm round our children, Keep them close to thee-and God.
